

SUNRISE log

Course Description

Foresight and Transformative innovation

If you are interested in learning how to use foresight and innovation to shape the future, you might want to consider taking this course in foresight and transformative innovation.

This course will teach you how to apply foresight tools and techniques to identify and analyse trends, drivers, and signals of change that are likely to impact your business, industry, or community. This course in foresight and transformative innovation will help you to become more proactive, creative, and resilient in the face of uncertainty and complexity.

Basic Course Information

Host university	Mälardalen University , MDU, Eskilstuna, Sweden
Academic course coordinator	Carina Sjödin , University Lecturer Innovation Technology
Subject area	Innovation Technology
Target group	Professionals and students
Language	English
Intended learning outcomes	How foresight and transformative innovation can help you anticipate future challenges and opportunities. Identify signals and develop strategies for a viable future.
ECTS / Certificate	Certificate
Teaching format	Open Access (MOOC) Online and self-paced in a learning platform
Academic year	Autumn 2026 – Autumn 2027
Sign up and start the course	Link
Go to the Course information	Download